

IN MEMORY OF ADM ROBERT L.J.
LONG

HON. IKE SKELTON

OF MISSOURI

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, July 18, 2002

Mr. SKELTON. Mr. Speaker, it is with deep sadness that I inform the House of the death of ADM Robert L.J. Long of Annapolis, MD.

ADM Long was born in Kansas City, MO, on May 29, 1920, son of Trigg Allen and Margaret (Franklin) Long. He attended Paseo High School, Kansas City Junior College, and Washington University in St. Louis, MO.

ADM Long was a 1943 graduate of the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis. He served his country in the Pacific during World War II on the battleship Colorado. He was awarded the Bronze Star Medal with Combat "V", for meritorious service as Plotting Room Officer during operations against enemy Japanese forces in the Philippine Islands and the Ryukyu Islands.

ADM Long went on to serve the U.S. Navy in many other capacities including commander of the Atlantic Fleet Submarine Force and Vice Chief of Naval Operations in 1972, and commander in chief of all U.S. military forces in the Pacific from 1979 until his retirement in 1983.

After his retirement, ADM Long became a board member of Northrop Grumman Corporation and Hudson Industries. He was also principal executive of President Ronald Reagan's fact-finding committee that investigated the 1983 bombing of the Marine barracks in Beirut.

Mr. Speaker, ADM Long was a valuable leader in the U.S. Navy. He was a role model for younger people interested in military service. I know the Members of the House will join me in extending heartfelt condolences to his family: his wife, Sara, and his three sons, Charles Allen, William Trigg, and Robert Helms Long.

NATIVE AMERICAN SACRED LANDS ACT

HON. NICK J. RAHALL II

OF WEST VIRGINIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, July 18, 2002

Mr. RAHALL. Mr. Speaker, this body, the United States House of Representatives, is housed in a testament to freedom, a symbol of government, a monument of national historical and cultural significance. Throughout the halls of the United States Capitol there are statues of our founders, our heroes, our history. For the past 200 years, legislators have sweat blood and tears debating the laws of our great country.

In fact, many would argue the United States Capitol is sacred.

But there are many places across this country, no less sacred than the building behind me, that are being desecrated as we speak. It is inconceivable to imagine an oil rig plopped in the middle of the Sistine Chapel. But in fact that is the very problem facing Native American sacred lands today.

For example, the proposed site for a 1,600-acre, open-pit gold mine in Indian Pass, California, is a place where "dream trails" were woven. The Bush Administration revoked a Clinton-era ruling that said mining operations would cause irreparable harm to these ancestral lands, an extremely sacred place to the Quechan Indian tribe. Now the tribe is left fighting for its religious and cultural history.

Long before my ancestors arrived on these shores, American Indians were the first stewards of this land. They respected the earth, water and air. They understood you take only what you need and leave the rest. They demonstrated you do not desecrate that which is sacred.

Most Americans understand a reverence for the great Sistine Chapel, or even the United States Capitol. But often non-Indians have difficulty giving that same reverence to a mountain, valley, stream or rock formation.

Recently Indian Country attained a victory in Valley of Chiefs, Montana. The oil company which sought to drill in this valley of peace agreed to transfer its oil leases to the National Trust for Historic Preservation.

But we cannot fight to preserve Native American sacred lands on a case by case basis. Valley of Chiefs serves as a wake-up call for action, for the pressing need to protect bona fide Native American sacred sites wherever they may lie on the public domain.

That is why today I am introducing the Native American Sacred Lands Protection Act. Joining me in the introduction of this legislation are DALE KILDEE of Michigan, GEORGE MILLER of California, ENI FALEOMAVAEGA of American Samoa, FRANK PALLONE of New Jersey, TOM UDALL of New Mexico, BRAD CARSON of Oklahoma, BETTY MCCOLLUM of Minnesota, PATRICK KENNEDY of Rhode Island and JOHN BALDACCIO of Maine.

First, the bill would enact into law a 1996 executive order designed to protect sacred lands. Specifically, it ensures access and ceremonial use of sacred lands and mandates all federal land management agencies take the necessary steps to prevent significant damage to sacred lands.

Second, our bill gives Indian Tribes the ability to petition the government to place federal lands off-limits to energy leasing or other incompatible developments when they believe those proposed actions would cause significant damage to their sacred lands.

This is an extremely important provision. The tribes would no longer have to depend on the good graces of federal bureaucrats to protect these lands. Rather, the tribes themselves could initiate those protections.

If you look to our national parks, forests and monuments and you see the commitment to preserve many of our country's natural treasures. The Federal Government has put its full weight behind protecting these lands, and we can do the same for Indian Country.

At a time when the Bush Administration is promoting increased energy development, we must enact comprehensive legislation that prohibits the loss of further Native American sacred lands. We must not stand idly by as these unique places are wiped off the face of the earth.

We commend this legislation to the House of Representatives.

CONDEMNATION OF TERRORIST BOMBINGS IN ISRAEL

HON. BENJAMIN A. GILMAN

OF NEW YORK

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, July 18, 2002

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Speaker, The two simultaneous barbarous homicide bombing attacks that struck Tel Aviv last night, claiming the lives of 3 innocent civilians, took place in the immediate aftermath of Tuesday's terrorist ambush of an Israeli bus carrying civilians outside the Jewish community of Immanuel, claiming the lives of 8 Israelis, including an unborn baby. This attack took the lives of three members of the same family. The military wing of Yasir Arafat's Fatah movement, the Al Aqsa Martyr's Brigade, has taken responsibility for this attack.

As President Bush stated in his June 24 address on the Middle East, as long as Israelis continue to be victimized by terrorists, Israel will continue to defend itself. Any hope that the Palestinian Authority was serious about rejecting terrorism and undergoing serious reform, thereby creating the environment demanded by the President for peace talks to be able to proceed, has been dashed.

Yasir Arafat, and his close associates, who rule tyrannically over their own people while trafficking with terrorists targeting Israel, constitute the root cause of the Middle East violence, as well as the major obstacles to peace. These attacks were designed to coincide with a renewed diplomatic process, specifically the meeting of the Middle East "quartet" in New York, which is composed of the United States, the European Union, the United Nations and Russia.

Mr. Speaker, Israel must and will continue to defend itself and its citizens. Israel's military operation in the territories in recent weeks have resulted in the arrests of numerous terrorists, and has undoubtedly prevented countless acts of terror planned against Israeli civilians. Israel's security cannot be entrusted to anyone but Israel. Accordingly, we must support Israel's right to defend itself in the face of these continuing terrorist threats.

We must also make it clear to the Palestinian Authority that their insincere condemnations will not suffice. Those who cavort with terror, those who provide financial support to terrorist groups, and those who knowingly and willingly harbor such organizations while taking no actions against them, are enemies not just of Israel, but of the United States and the rest of the civilized world. They must be treated accordingly.
